

Lee County State Highway Worker Files Lawsuit

An ongoing investigation into acts of abuse, both physical and sexual by a supervisor and employees of state highway garage in Lee County has been filed and has been handed over to the Office of Human Resources Management for their determination of action by Cindy James, Inspector General for the Kentucky Transportation Cabinet.

According to the investigation, on September 27, 2013, James Best contacted Elisabeth Miller, Adm. Coordinator D10 to inform her of physical abuse himself, and other employees had been subjected to by his supervisor, Kevin McIntosh. An open investigation began.

Best stated the first incident occurred on May 20, 2013 at Bear Track Park around noon. He stated that McIntosh and two other employees picked him up and put him on a merry-go-round, spun him for a long period of time in both directions. As the began to slow down, McIntosh struck Best in the groin causing him to fall off the ride in severe pain. Best stated that he nearly threw up and was on the ground for a long period of time. During this time, McIntosh was making derogatory remarks about Best and making fun of him "slobbering" on himself. Another co-worker, Warner, recalled McIntosh striking Best in the groin during this time and said it was "the

Coal Severance Projects No New Health Department Owsley County Fiscal Court Meeting - 2/11/14

The Owsley County Fiscal Court had their regular scheduled meeting on Tuesday, February 11, 2014 with one member absent, Mike Harris. Both the Clerks reading of the minutes and the treasurers report were voted to by-pass the reading in the open meeting.

Under the agenda item, the resolution for Coal Severance Projects, Judge DeBord stated "this would probably be the last money they would get until they started mining coal back again". He also stated "that they were hoping to get enough money to get a new health department, but they are not going to get enough money and would have to drop that project". $75,000 would go to the existing health department to expand their parking lots to try to get more land off the school and probably do work on the existing on the building. $100,000 on the civic center to try to finish it. Magistrate Roger Reed asked how much more would it take to finish it. Judge DeBord stated that this money put us at around $300,000 and the last bid to finish it was over $600,000. Motion was passed.

In other business, Stella Marshall, Ed Wilder and others were there to discuss the closing of a road at the mouth of Lower Wolf Creek at Claud Marshall's line. The road was blocked off for some reason with two large piles of dirt. They presented a signed statement from the former judge and magistrate that they road had been maintained during their term by the county. They also produced a deed that used the "county road" as a reference to a deed line. In 1954 the road was on the map, but from 1967-1995, it was not on the map. Judge DeBord stated that he went up to District 10 and looked it up.

County Attorney Henley McIntosh stated that he had a letter submitted to the Attorney General to ask for advise on what to do in this case. The regional office told them that if they worked the road, that is not on the map, you are working a private driveway and you are violating the law. I cannot tell these people to vote to violate the law. Mr. McIntosh also also explained to them that some roads are closed through the court by abandonment, they just quit keeping it up. Mr. McIntosh stated that either after 8-15 years a county road loses their status after the county abandons it. No motion or decision was made.

OUTDOOR TRUTHS

by
GARY MILLER

There's no doubt one of the thrills of my life is being able to get outdoors with a bow, gun, or rod. This time of year I am especially nostalgic concerning this. When you get cooped up because of the weather you really begin to appreciate those things you are unable to do. This is when the gun and bait shops really come in handy. As I have said before, I am so glad these places encourage loitering. They know that many times talking about past adventures and future expeditions are a balm to our restless, outdoor soul. During periods of inactivity, I am drawn to these places just as much as I am drawn to the outdoors during better weather. We hunters always like handling a new gun or checking out the newest bait the pros are using to catch big bass. And then there are also the guys who, like me, have pulled up a chair at that local hangout. It's probably no different than when our grandfathers met at the local hardware and feed store (which sold guns) to play checkers.

This is really the best part about this kind of loitering. It's actually pretty boring if no one is there and I'm left to browse on my own. No, people are what make this place special – people from all ages, from all walks of life and from all social statuses. But we are all there because we have something in common. And while there may be conversations concerning some disagreements, it never seems to affect our relationship. It is as if what we have in common is stronger than what we don't like about one another. The results are friendships that are based on something far deeper than differences. I'm not even sure I know what it is. But I do know this; when I spend periods of time with someone, I begin to get to know so much more of them than simply a political or preferential label. I get to know them – whatever "them" is. And what I begin to realize is, their good qualities so outweigh our differences, I would be the one to lose by excluding them from my life. So, while I may still differ in some areas and even try to convert them to the truths I hold dear; my words will now come from a place far, far deeper than my convictions; but from compassion.

IS DEBT THE REAL CRISIS?

Preachers Point

by
Timothy Johnson

The debt ceiling was raised last week. If you watch, read or listen to news at all; you know the words, "debt crisis" is constantly out there. The blame for the debt and a slew of other problems is often put on the shoulders of the politicians. I'm here to ask, especially if you are a Christian, to look at this in a different light. Don't blame the parties; we (Americans), as a group, voted them into office. A popular elected government is a reflection of the people. Most American households are so far in debt they will never be out of it. Why would we elect a government that wouldn't be the same? The Biblical requirements for changing the country are humility, prayer, seeking God's face and repentance, all done by God's people (2 Chronicles 7:14). Could it be our problems are spiritual problems and not political?

The Bible speaks of a day when the world will be in such a mess that a man on a white horse will arrive to solve (or at least the world thinks he solves) all the world's problems (Revelation 6:2). Whether this man is a year or a century from coming on the scene the truth is we are one day closer to his arrival today than we were yesterday.

This man will be looked upon as a hero, a political genius, a mastermind of the battlefield, the greatest of diplomats, in fact, the day will come when many will see him as a god. He is the Antichrist.

I don't know of any Christians that don't know the Antichrist is coming but few think about it. If the world is in such a mess that when this fellow "fixes" the problems he looks like a god instead of a mere man how bad must the problems be when he arrives?

The stock market bubble, the debt approaching 20 trillion, the economic mess of Europe, the peace problems of the Middle East, social unrest, terrorism, all these things and more are leading the way to the unfixable situations the god on the white horse will appear to solve.

What are we to do? Again, 2 Chronicles 7:14, "If my people, which are called by my name, shall humble themselves, and pray, and seek my face, and turn from their wicked ways; then will I hear from heav

"My people, which are called by my name" - Could there be any doubt God is speaking to Christians here? We follow Christ, we are called Christians; we are called by His name. "Humble yourselves" - Strong's Hebrew Dictionary of the Old Testament says the word "humble" here is to "bring down (low), into subjection, under, humble (self), subdue." Christians need to humble themselves by putting themselves under the subjection of God. If you're reading the Bible or listening to sermon and God tells you to stop something you are doing; stop. If He tells you, you should be doing something you are not; start. Have a heart that is willing to do as He says, regardless. "Pray" - Prayer is much more than telling God what you need or want. It helps bring us into His image. We need to talk to Him about our heart far more than we talk to Him about the material needs. If the humility mentioned above is difficult for you; ask God for it. "Seek my face" - Strive to get to know God better. This can only be done by studying His Word. God's likes and dislikes, what makes Him happy, what makes Him sad, angry; even what will make Him laugh is all in there. Just like we learn the personality of our friends; we are to learn the personality of God. We get this from the Bible as He tells us the story of Himself. "Turn from their wicked ways" - Simple enough; repent, stop doing what God says is wrong.

When all this happens on a mass scale with God's people He will heal the land. The nation we have is a direct result of the spiritual wellbeing of the Christians. If Christians are not revived the crises we are experiencing will grow worse but when revival comes the land will be healed.

Finding Funds and Ensuring Checks and Balances

February opened with snow and ice across most of Kentucky. I hope you and yours are safe. As crews are out working all hours of the night, and utility workers restoring power to the many areas that lost it, I am reminded of, and appreciate the people that are out working in these tough and hazardous conditions. It's also no secret that this weather presents a financial hit on the tight budgets of many cities and businesses. Treating the roads is expensive and so are the materials and man power required to restore power, fix water line breaks, clear debris and manage other various problems. Also, many are burdened due to businesses that have to close, which lose potential sales, and agencies that cannot operate due to hazardous road conditions. It is in light of the tight budgets throughout the state, including that of Kentucky, that the Senate is working to save funds where possible. We have been able to identify redundancies in state government, find areas where we can consolidate services and have presented legislation to promote efficiency. For example, this week we passed Senate Bill 58, a constitutional amendment that abolishes the office of the state Treasurer. With this measure, Kentucky would save at least $2 million in the first year, and $750,000 in subsequent years. The duties of the office would be absorbed by the Finance Cabinet.

The current Treasurer would not be affected, as his term will end prior to the implementation of this measure, should it pass. The merit employees in this office would be absorbed in other departments of State Government.

Regarding other areas of government efficiency and operations, I want to highlight Senate Bill 1, which I co-sponsored and which passed the Senate this week. The legislation is critical and is a top priority of our majority Caucus. Senate Bill 1 would place an amendment on November's ballot asking the people to restore proper checks and balances to our three co-equal branches of government.

Currently, if the Legislature passes a law, the intent of that law can be changed with regulations enacted by a sitting governor, while the Legislature has no power to review or stop them. In short the Executive Branch can act unilaterally. Senate Bill 1 would emphasize the Legislature's power to stop such regulations by allowing us to make any regulation we find deficient void and unenforceable at any time of the year. Currently, 15 other state legislatures have the power to disapprove of a proposed rule, or have a committee that may suspend a rule.

As I testified for this legislation during a meeting of the Committee on State and Local Government, I asserted that the Executive Branch creating law regulation has been an issue for many, many years, and has caused friction between the Executive and Legislative Branch. We are the policy making branch. We give the authority to the Executive Branch to promulgate regulations. We need to set up a way to review regulations to make sure they do not go outside of the legislative intent. There have been many regulations found deficient over the years and there must be a way to allow the Legislature to review regulations whether during a General Assembly, or during the Interim. That is the way the framers of our constitution set up this system. This legislation, which ensures the true separation of powers, is needed.

In other economic news, this week, Governor Beshear announced his tax reform proposal. The proposal included 22 items, some of which were sound and rational, and helped business in Kentucky. But the increases on sales tax and cigarettes just are not fair, nor does it make sense in this economy. This increased tobacco tax proposed by the governor targets an economic base that is shrinking every year, and will encourage more to quit which will negatively affect that revenue stream. The result of dissuading people to smoke is a good public health benefit, but it does not make sense economically.

Additionally, the Governor wants to raise taxes on certain services, again unfairly assessing higher taxes on citizens that are already burdened by increasing health costs, insurance costs and federal taxes. It seems that in a state that statistically rates high in obesity and diabetes, one wouldn't want to increase taxes on fitness center memberships, for example. Additionally, the tax on automotive repairs seems to be more of a burden on low income families who depend on older vehicles and do not have access to large amounts of disposable income. So, while a comprehensive tax reform package that all can agree on is a difficult venture, it seems prudent to seek more areas of government that can be streamlined and saved funds be put to better use. Your input on the issues facing the state, as always, is important to me. I invite you to contact me with issues or concerns in Frankfort at 800-372-7181 or 502-564-3120.

I encourage you to come to Frankfort and see the session and or committee meetings. If you can't visit, then please tune in. You can keep up with all activity and view live-streaming and archived coverage of legislative proceedings at www.ket.org. You can also follow our caucus at @kysenategov.

hall" meeting to discuss Obamacare. He stated he's been in the largest from the tiniest hospitals. The reason for these meetings was to help answer, "What was the driving notion of Obamacare?" McConnell stated, "It was well intended, the goal was to have more people uninsured. What was the condition of our country at this time? 85% of the americans had insurance at this time, 15% didn't, which meant roughly 40-45 million people were uninsured. McConnell stated that the people uninsured were in two categories: young people that thought they didn't need it because they were young and healthy and thought they were going to live forever and the others just couldn't afford it. When Obamacare passed, it was an 2700 page bill. It took a trillion dollars away from the providers of healthcare through reductions in medicare reimbursements, for hospitals, home healthcare, hospice and the likes. It levied a new tax on devices, like stints, and levied a new tax on insurance. This was to provide subsidies for the uninsured.

At this time there is a record amount of part time jobs because of employees are trying to stay below the 50 employees mark to keep from being required to purchase insurance for their employees. McConnell stated that this administration has wreaked havoc with 16% of the economy. 6th year of this administration with the slowest recovery since WWII; especially in eastern KY since the war on coal. He also stated that there is a new regulation moving, that there will not be another coal fire plant built and there is another on the existing plant. McConnell stated three recommendation that could help with the existing system of healthcare. — have a competition in healthcare to set up a competitive model to pit them against each other to come up with lower premiums. — National medical malpractice standard that discourages malpractice lawsuits to keep from unnecessary unwarranted tests.

— Allow small business to band together into larger groups to have the purchasing power to get better prices on insurance.

McConnell stated that the Congressional Research Service shows that even that if Obama care is fully implemented that there will still be 30 million uninsured.

At 5:00pm, the trio came to Wildcat Harley-Davidson in London to unveil "Appalachia Proud," a brand Comer says will begin appearing on products locally-grown in Eastern Kentucky. Comer stated his department is working with the state universities to develop crops like honey and ginseng.

Senator Rand Paul discussed the hemp production in Kentucky. He said it could prove to be a cash crop and Kentucky is set to launch five pilot projects to research viability of the plant. "Senator McConnell and I were able to get it on the farm bill and get the legalization of at least the beginnings of a hemp program," stated Senator Paul. "Eastern Kentucky has lost so many coal industry jobs," stated Paul, "something dramatic must be done to get them growing again!"

hardest I've seen anybody hit." Warner described Best as "gagging, it hurt him, he was sick..." Warner stated McIntosh told Best to get back to work, and Best told him he was sick. McIntosh's response to him was, if you don't want to do your job, go back to the garage.

When McIntosh was interviewed about this incident, he recalled it occurred during lunch break. McIntosh stated he attempted to hit Best in the leg but accidentally hit him in "the privates." Best got mad and McIntosh told him if he didn't want to do his job they would go to the garage. McIntosh admitted to hitting him hard enough that day to hurt him.

The another incident occurred on a Wednesday in April 2013 when everyone was signing out, Raymond Morse, a highway equipment operator, approached Best from behind, wrapped his arms around him and began to squeeze him. Best stated he told him to stop, however Morse continued until his chest popped and a big knot formed. Best stated by Friday his condition had deteriorated until he could no longer work or sleep. Warner recalls when Morse picked Best up and his ribs were broken. He stated that Best came to work after that and could hardly move. Warner was employed by the Lee County Maintenance Crew for three years and described it as like "working with kids". He was constantly aware of the possibility of getting "hit between the legs" or "something might be thrown at you." "It was kindly hazardous to work there." Warner eventually requested a transfer to the bridge crew telling Miller he was either going to transfer or quit.

Best states that the abusive employees are in their mid 30's while he is over 60 years of age. I am not the only one who has been harmed. Warner needs to have surgery on his leg due to an injury he incurred for being wrestled to the ground by his co-workers. Brandon Marshall has had a thumb broken by Morse.

During the interview with McIntosh, he stated "Every man does it, including myself," eluding to the striking of each others testicles. He also stated that rock throwing has been going on "forever." and that wrestling was just part of it. He said, "I just let it get out of hand." When told he had been implicated as the leader of the "horseplay," McIntosh said simply, "I like to play around too. Makes the day go by. I felt like I have been doing my job but I guess I've let horseplay get out of hand. We hit each other hard enough to hurt. We do. We d. Including me." McIntosh also admitted KYTC property had been damaged or destroyed by this "horseplay."

The inspector general's report concluded that it was reasonable to see that McIntosh had been the principal contributor to the "horseplay" and led to unsafe working conditions and injuries among employees. He also failed to report injuries as required by policy.

Best's attorneys, Ned Pillersdorf and Joe F. Childers filed a federal lawsuit last week over this alleged abuse. In this lawsuit, it states that Best was subjected to a series of physical and sexual attacks over several months after he started working at the Lee County Maintenance Garage. According to the lawsuit, Best reported the abuse to the Transportation Cabinet and asked to be transferred but was denied, while the attacks on Best increased.

All of the employees under investigation remain on the job.

56th District Tournament Begins Next Week At Lee County High School

Cont. from front Friday, February 28th beginning at 7:00pm. Admission for the games will be $3 for students and $5 for adults.

Last week the coaches and administrators from the district schools met and discussed several rules and regulations that they would like followed during the district tournament. They would like all of the fans to follow good sportsmanship during the tournament. All signs should promote one's team and not be derogatory toward other schools or players. The hanging of signs will be confined to the team's fan seating area. Failure to follow these procedures will result in the removal of these signs without prior notice.

All fans are expected to show consideration of others by not standing continuously during a game. Standing in walkways and next to the gym floor are safety issues and will not be allowed. All spectators are required to sit in the bleachers. Student "standing sections" will be marked next to bands.

Fans that are showing obvious lack of sportsmanship will be removed from the premises (cursing, harassment of student athletes/fans, moving down from seating area, stepping on to the playing floor, throwing objects, incite, etc.)

Positive cheering is encouraged of all spectators.

Artificial noisemakers and confetti are prohibited. Violators of this policy will be removed and materials will be confiscated.

All individuals are required to remain fully clothed. Shirts, shoes, etc. are to be worn at all times.

Use of tobacco products are not permitted in the school.

Students are required to stay in the building until they leave. Students may not re-enter after exiting the building during the game. Adults must receive a stamp upon purchase of a ticket to be allowed to re-enter the game.

Come out and support the Owls and Lady Owls during tournament time and have a fun time at the games. The players and coaches appreciate your support and encourage you to come out and cheer for them during next weeks games.

The following week, regional play begins, with the girls runner up and champion travelling to Leslie County High School and the boys runner up and champion travelling to Perry County Central.

Congratulations Logan!!

Congratulations to Logan Campbell, who was named to the First Team Academic All-State for Cross Country, by the Kentucky Track and Cross Country Coaches Association. Recipients must be of high academic standard and finish in the top 15 in State competition to be considered for this award.

Snow Doesn't Stop FFA Service Learning Project

February 14 traditionally is a day to remind those closest to you how much you appreciate them. This year the Owsley County FFA members planned to demonstrate that appreciation by sending a Valentine's Day card to each resident at the Owsley County Health Care Center. Thanks to yet another batch of weather from Mother Nature this task proved to be ever more difficult. Only 3 days of school before Valentine's Day was sure to put a stop to their plans. However, with the help of some dedicated FFA members and the enlistment of some of the Lady Owls Basketball team members and friends, we were able to hand craft over 80 cards and assemble over 70 treat bags. FFA members then returned on Friday Feb. 14 and delivered them to patients in the nursing home. Thank you to all those that helped make the "FFA has a Heart Project" a success.

Matthew Nuttle joins in on the card making fun.
